

FAIR TRADE UNIVERSITY

A Hands-On Experience in Guatemala

- Visit and work with two rural, coffee-growing cooperatives
- Discuss Fair Trade. Should it be market-based or movement-based?
- Learn about organic production of coffee, what it means, and its importance to these communities struggling to do sustainable development
- Learn about the history of Guatemala's internal conflict and the histories of the communities
- Study CAFTA and its effects on Guatemala
- Analyze women's organizing to resist CAFTA

The next Fair Trade University is in the planning process for June 2008. To find out how you can be a part of this learning adventure, email FTU@JUSTCOFFEE.COOP or see WWW.JUSTCOFFEE.COOP/FTU
